- 1) Claims 1 to 37 are pending in the instant application.
- 2) Claims 31 to 37 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the correspondence filed 22 October of 2003.
- 3) The instant specification has been amended as requested by Applicant in the preliminary amendment that was filed on 05 November of 2001.
- 4) This application contains sequence disclosures that are encompassed by the definitions for nucleotide and/or amino acid sequences set forth in 37 C.F.R. § 1.821(a)(1) and (a)(2). However, this application fails to comply with the requirements of 37 C.F.R. § 1.821 through 1.825. Specifically, no sequence listing has been provided which includes the amino acid sequence presented as "NPXXY" the instant specification and claims. Applicant needs to provide a substitute computer readable form (CRF) copy of a "Sequence Listing" which includes all of the sequences that are present in the instant application and encompassed by these rules, a substitute paper copy of that "Sequence Listing", an amendment directing the entry of that paper copy into the specification, and a statement that the content of the paper and computer readable copies are the same and, where applicable, include no new matter, as required by 37 C.F.R. §§ 1.821(e) or 1.821(f) or 1.821(g) or 1.825(b) or 1.825(d). The instant specification will also need to be amended so that it complies with 37 C.F.R. § 1.821(d) which requires a reference to a particular sequence identifier (SEQ ID NO:) be made in the specification and claims wherever a reference is made to that sequence. For rules interpretation Applicant may call (703) 308-1123. See M.P.E.P. 2422.04.

5) The instant specification does not comply with 37 C.F.R. § 1.84(U)(1), which states that partial views of a drawing which are intended to form one complete view, whether contained on one or several sheets, must be identified by the same number followed by a capital letter. Figure 8 of the instant application, for example, is presented on two separate panels. The two sheets of drawings which are labeled "Figure 8" in the instant specification should be renumbered "Figures 8A and 8B". Alternatively, the three drawings presented on those two sheets can be numbered "Figure 8A, 8B and 8C". Applicant is reminded that once Figures 8, 10 and 11 are changed to meet the separate numbering requirement of 37 C.F.R. § 1.84(U)(1), Applicant is required to file an amendment to change the Brief Description of the Drawings and the rest of the specification where necessary.

6) This application does not contain an abstract of the disclosure as required by 37 CFR 1.72(b). An abstract on a separate sheet is required.

7) The oath or declaration is defective. A new oath or declaration in compliance with 37 CFR 1.67(a) identifying this application by application number and filing date is required. See MPEP §§ 602.01 and 602.02.

The oath or declaration is defective because it was not executed in accordance with either 37 CFR 1.66 or 1.68. Specifically, it has not been signed by Stephane A. Laporte.

8) Claims 16 to 19 are objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c), as being of improper dependent form for failing to further limit the subject matter of a previous claim. Applicant is required to cancel the claim(s), or amend the claim(s) to place the claim(s) in proper dependent form, or rewrite the claim(s) in independent form. A properly dependent claim can not conceivably be infringed without infringing any of the claims from which it depends. Claims 16 to 19 can be infringed by an isolated nucleic acid that does not infringe the GPCR protein of claim 1, from which they depend. See M.P.E.P. 608.01(n)III.

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

9) Claim 17 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. A "nucleic acid sequence" is a property of a nucleic acid and not a material entity in and of itself. Therefore, a "sequence" is not subject to patentability any more than other properties such as size, shape and color.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

10) Claims 1 to 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

10.1) Claims 1 to 30 are vague and indefinite in so far as they employ the term "modified GPCR" as a limitation in the absence of a point of reference. In order for an item to be "modified" it must be altered from a previous form. Therefore, an unambiguous application of the limitation "modified" requires the identification of the original, unmodified item and the nature of the change or changes made thereto. This issue is particularly relevant to claim 15, in which it is unclear how the presence of the limitation "modified GPCR" distinguishes the claimed subject matter recited therein from an otherwise identical claim lacking that limitation.

10.2) Claim 1 is confusing because it recites structural features that are required to be present in a "second GPCR" from which a "portion of a carboxyl-terminus" is to be included in the "modified GPCR" of the claim, without indicating whether those structural features are supposed to be included in that "portion of a carboxyl-terminus" or in the "modified GPCR". This claim is further confusing because it appears to require the second GPCR to contain two putative sites of palmitoylation and two NPXXY motifs. The limitations "second putative site of palmitoylation" and "second NPXXY motif" have no antecedent basis in the claim because they are referring to "the second GPCR", which is not required to have a first putative site of palmitoylation or a first NPXXY motif. Claims 21 and 26 are confusing for essentially the same reasons. Claims 2 to 19, 22 to 25 and 27 to 30 are vague and indefinite in so far as they depend from any one of claims 1, 21 or 26 for these elements.

10.3) Claims 1 to 19, 21 and 23 are vague and indefinite in their recitation of the limitations "approximately 10 to 25 amino acids", "approximately 20 to 55 amino acids" and "approximately 30 to 45 amino acids". Even though the use of the term "approximately" in a claim is inherently vague and indefinite, its use is appropriate when employed to limit a value which is composed of infinitely divisible units such as inches, meters, grams and pints where it is impractical to produce an item which has exactly the dimension recited. Even if one could practically produce an item that is exactly 1 inch in length, the length of that item is conditional upon the temperature at which it is measured. However, when defining an invention in terms of indivisible numerical units such as the number of nucleotides in a nucleic acid, the number of amino acids in a polypeptide or the number of legs on a chair or table, the term "approximately" is unacceptably vague and indefinite since it is practical to employ a term which possesses the required precision. If, for example, it is Applicant's intention that the claims should encompass a polypeptide of no more than 32 amino acids in length then this is exactly what the claim should recite. Whereas one would reasonably interpret the term "about one inch" as encompassing any value from 0.90 inches to 1.10 inches one would not know if the term "approximately 10 to 25 amino acids" would include or exclude 9, 8, or even 7 amino acids.

10.4) Claims 18 is vague and indefinite because there is no antecedent basis for "the nucleic acid of claim 17", which is drawn to a "sequence".
